AS PEOPLE ENTER THEIR 40S AND EXPERIENCE PRESBYOPIA (DIFFICULTY SEEING UP CLOSE), THEY OFTEN STRUGGLE WITH ISSUES LIKE “SHORT ARMS” AND DIM LIGHTING. TO HELP, EYEMED OFFERS VISION SOLUTIONS LIKE READING GLASSES OR PROGRESSIVE LENSES.

However, along with presbyopia, early hearing loss, known as presbycusis, also begins. Traditionally, the solution for hearing loss has been a hearing aid, which 48% of people feel a stigma about wearing.¹

But there is a new solution for patients with mild to moderate hearing loss—Nuance Audio. Purchased by EssilorLuxottica in 2023, Nuance Audio looks like a sleek, modern pair of glasses. However, inside the frame is breakthrough technology that allows the user to improve their hearing in noisy environments. It works by reducing surrounding noise and enhancing the sound coming from whatever the user is looking at. And, importantly, there is nothing in the ear of the user.

The case for adding hearing assistance to vision correction is clear:

- 70% of adults struggle to hear conversations in noisy environments²
- Only 1/3 of adults with hearing loss use a hearing assistive device³
- Individuals with both untreated vision and hearing loss are at a higher risk of some form of dementia⁴
- Duke University neuroscientists research was able to show that hearing, vision and the brain are more closely linked than anyone realized⁵

EyeMed members may be able to use their vision benefits to help cover costs when purchasing Nuance Audio. Coverage for Nuance Audio would be applied through their frame allowance or lens copays.

YOUR NUANCE AUDIO, YOUR STYLE

Nuance Audio Glasses are available in two stylish designs and colors to complement any look while incorporating our invisible hearing solution.
